The Seasons of RCTR

It's 6pm and the sun hasn't set yet. The days are getting longer, beckoning, "warmer temps are on the way".

While each season offers it's own enjoyments, most of our members are here during the warmer month. Although, we do have a select members of whom we only see in the winter.

The wintery riding this year hasn't been much of an adventure. With most weekends the cold blustery winds to deal with; and only a few days of snow, the ATV's really have had a great opportunity to enjoy the trails and even some avid bikers braved the slippery terrain. The nice thing we missed about the snow this year is that it acts as a natural blanket between your tires and rocky terrain; making the roughest trails quite comfy to glide along. It's just a matter of adding a couple layers of thermal gear and your off to nice ride.

Spring is a little over a month away. Right around the corner it is! Spring brings longer days, sunshine, budding trees and usually lots of rain with it. A great time for riders who love muddin'. It's also a great time to shake off that cabin fever and get out to ride. This time of year we usually see a high influx of members joining us over the weekends but not as many as we see the beginning of Summer. Summer brings even warmer temperatures, cookouts, campfires, and dryer days. It brings members for days and even weeks at a time as families enjoy their vacation time. Warm days and cool nights under starry skies—just can't get any better than that!

Then before you know it, Fall starts pressing in. The cool, crisp autumn air brings out many different members whom the office doesn't see all Summer. These riders just love the crisp air and the warm sun that fall has. RC's fall foliage is always impressive and the riding is even better—the falling leaves not only provide a glamorous view but also softens the ride too.

Spring, Summer, Fall or Winter—no matter what season you enjoy, RCTR has the riding

TIP OF THE DAY

Adding salt to the water for cooking pasta is a good idea, but wait until the water boils. Why you ask? If you salt the water before it boils, it will take longer to boil.

Add 2 tablespoons of salt for each pound of pasta.
