A Beautiful Winter Wonderland @ RCTR

The weather forecasters spot on with the weather this week with frigid temps dropping into the negative degrees and not planned to rise above freezing until Sunday. About 7 inches of snow cushions the ground making for a nice ride on the trails.

CAMPGROUND

The campground is open but towing a trailer without a four-wheel-drive truck is probably not a good idea until the snow clears. Be cautious of icy conditions. Camp roads are not plowed. It is advised that you bring a shovel.

TRAILS MANDATORY BUDDY SYSTEM!!

Trails are manageable but at your own risk with snow drifts that are knee high or higher in some places. As a precaution and a prelude of our experience recovering people from similar situations last year; we are making it MANDATORY to ride using the Buddy System; all riders must be accompanied by another member or friend. It is also mandatory to have a shovel along. You can purchase the foldable shovels at any camping store and even Wal-Mart. Every effort will be made to recover people but if you got your machine stuck, there may be a chance it'll be staying right where it is until the snow melts.

IT'S FROZEN...

Unfortunately, every member that signed up on the septic list last week had a frozen porta-potty and unfortunately campers aren't accessible either. If you do happen to get your potty unfroze before the weather warms up, follow the below steps to avoid this problem in the future.

Pour one cup of the antifreeze into the toilet bowl. Use one cup for every 5 to 6 gallons of water the toilet bowl holds. If it's a flush toilet in the RV flush the toilet so the antifreeze goes into the holding tank and through the pipes. Pour a half-cup of rock salt into the toilet and flush the crystals down into the tank.
